Dewitt MacKenzie Interprets Today's News From War Zones

Britain's bold action in cutting Italy off from vital German oil supplies looks like an effort on the part of the Anglo-French allies to take the independent Mussolini down a peg or two and curb his ambitions.

That naturally represents a dangerous experiment with high-explosive—for Il Duce is all of that—but the allies have bided their time until they feel that they are now operating from a secure position.

Of course, it's always possible cynical observers are right in suggesting that the whole Anglo-Italian drama is a put-up job. The idea of such a stunt would be to give Italy a chance to cooperate more with the allies, under guise of unescapable duress, without moving Herr Hitler to violent anger against his partner (or should we say "former partner") in the Rome-Berlin axis.

Still, that's rather an extreme suspicion. While Europe is as full of hocus-pocus these days as a three-card-monte game, I think we are entitled to accept the view that the scrap is the real thing.

There have been many indications that the Anglo-French brotherhood (and especially England) want amicable relations with Mussolini. They undoubtedly wish to keep him out of Hitler's camp and at least in a state of non-belligerency which will suit their war plans. The recent operations of the allies and Il Duce in the Balkans have been carried out without a visible ripple.

At the same time there are some old scores to be settled. And there are some mean problems of great magnitude hanging fire. It is a fair bet that the allies are feeling out the position to see if the moment isn't ripe for a showdown with Mussolini. The object would be a firm but sweeping adjustment of differences without resort to arms.

The fascist chieftain has put his whole weight on the toes of England and France with his hob-nail boots many times since the historic moment in 1935 when he started out to carve his initials on the ancient throne of the Lion of Judah in Ethiopia. Mussolini has claimed that he was being pushed about.

The conquest of Ethiopia was only one of many things which put the Italian premier on the bad books of the allies. He quit the League of Nations. He intervened in the Spanish civil war with force. He joined hands with Hitler in the Rome-Berlin axis. He demanded a greater share of control of the Mediterranean and the Suez canal. He made territorial demands on France in fiery language. The allies say he stirred up trouble among their Arab peoples. He annexed Albania.

Up to this juncture neither England nor France has been in position to force the issue on any of these far reaching problems. Herr Hitler has occupied most of their waking hours, and their dreams as well.

The present, however, would seem from their viewpoint to be a good time for an understanding. Certainly they don't want to come up against a peace conference unexpectedly one of these days and have the Italian claims and policies hanging fire.

England and France now are fairly well set for their war with Germany, or anybody else who wants a slice of it. They not only have their armies in France (handy to the Italian border) but they have a great concentration of troops in the Mediterranean area and the Near East. What with the war on land static at the moment they never will be in better shape to thresh things out with Mussolini.

But that isn't all by a long shot. Italy has depended upon Ger-

Fire Discovered in City Hall Last Night

Timely discovery of a fire in the G. A. R. hall in the city building at 10:30 last night prevented possible serious damage. Fireman William Cinnamon and Patrolman Gilbert Glessner discovered the flames which presumably started from a cigarette stump, carelessly tossed into a waste paper basket in the kitchen adjoining the hall.

The two city employees were in the fire department section when they saw the flames through the frosted glass door and hurriedly called other members of the department. The fire was quickly extinguished with only minor damage to the equipment, but the entire city hall was filled with smoke. A meeting had been in progress in the hall a short time before.

Germany Also Believed Working to Same End; Other News of Wars

London, March 7.—(AP)—Two German warplanes fought with British pursuit planes off the east coast of England tonight.

Onlookers saw one raider almost collide with a British plane as the fight in the clouds began.

In a few minutes a second raider with two British fighters in pursuit appeared. Then came three more British planes and the two Germans "were driven out to sea". The onlookers said.

BULLETIN

Moscow, March 7.—(AP)—Nothing could be learned in Moscow today concerning Stockholm reports of a Swedish move to halt the Finnish-Russian war with an armistice, but informed observers discounted the possibility of such a step meeting success.

The Kremlin soon after the war started gave formal recognition to a "Finnish people's government" set up at Terijoki just across the frontier.

These observers expressed the opinion that the Soviet government was determined to support the Terijoki regime until final victory.

(By The Associated Press)

Talk of peace through an armistice in the Russian-Finnish war was heard persistently in Stockholm, though there was no official confirmation.

There was basis for belief, however, that Sweden was active in trying to bring peace and it was reported Russia's terms already had been submitted to Finland, calling for surrender of the Karelian isthmus, Viipuri, Lake Ladoga and part of the far northern Petsamo region to Russia.

Swedish political circles also expressed belief that Germany was taking a direct role in trying to bring peace to the northern battlefields where Russia and Finland still are locked in bitter fighting that centers along the Isthmus front.

Finland reported the Russians had suffered heavy losses in persistently trying to advance across frozen Viipuri bay to surround the city of the same name and that more than 30 Soviet tanks had been destroyed.

The Finns acknowledged a Soviet success northeast of Lake Ladoga, however, saying "a few islands" near the shore had been captured.

Finns Call More Men

Finland called up more men to the colors, summoning 19-year-olds and men who previously had been exempted for health reasons.

Finnish defense forces still were in possession of ruined Viipuri despite continuous Russian assaults. Military observers believed the Red Army's failure to advance on the front east of Viipuri accounted for their still being outside the city proper though with in striking distance.

Britain boasted her planes had made scouting flights during the night over Wilhelmshaven, German naval base, and other parts of northern Germany.

73-Year-Old Farmer Relates How He Lost Million Dollars He Never Had

Centralia, Ill., March 7.—(AP)—How he lost a million dollars that he never had was told today by John H. Young, 73-year-old Marion county farmer, who is amassing a fortune from oil at the rate of nearly $400 a day.

The disclosure was made after the Magnolia Petroleum Company announced the location for the 100th and last well on Young's 300-acre farm in the Lake Calumet-Salem oil field. No other farm in Illinois has as many wells.

The Young wells produced 340,000 barrels of oil during the last 30-day period and Young's one-eighth share, the usual royalty, would have netted him about $400 a month, but it didn't. He sold one half of the royalty on 200 acres for $7.50 an acre when the exploration first began. Later he sold more of his interest for $80 an acre, retaining only a fourth of his original royalty.

Federal Census Director Frees James Rosseli

Milwaukee, March 7.—(AP)— Immediate withdrawal of charges against James Rosseli, Kenosha cobbler accused of refusing to answer federal census questions, has been ordered by Census Director William L. Austin at Washington.

Austin directed withdrawal of the charges in a telegram addressed late yesterday to Donald M. Farris, census area manager at Racine.

"Withdraw Rosseli charges immediately", he wired to Farris.
"You have disregarded instructions that before taking legal action."

"Comes to Senses"

Kenosha, Wis., Mar. 7.—(AP)—
"I see census man come to his senses". James Rosseli punned today in commenting on Washington orders for withdrawal of federal charges brought against him on complaint of a census taker who claimed Rosseli refused to answer questions.

"See, I told you I no beeg criminal", Rosseli said. "I got nothing to bide. I know all time they can't do this to me. I good American citizen.
I no want trouble".

Rosseli lawyer said that until he is informed officially of his client's release "we must prepare to fight the case".

to Washington office for disposition. You will be held strictly responsible for this procedure. Insistently trying to advance across on the front east of Viipuri accounted for their still being outside the city proper though with Rosseli, who also operates a shop at Harvard, Ill., surrendered to federal authorities here yesterday, stating he would answer the questions "so long as they are put to me politely".

He was released on $200 bond
after U. S. Court Commissioner Floyd E. Jenkins adjourned arraignment with failing to give complete answers to questions of John W. Girman, a business census taker.

Girman asserted Rosseli pushed him out of his Kenosha shoe repair shop. Rosseli declared that Girman did not say what he wanted

"If the vote had been otherwise",
he added, "I am confident he would have lost hundreds of thousands of votes".

Despite Barkley's warning that Democrats would suffer if the existing law were relaxed, only one Republican—Senator Gurney (R-SD)—voted for the Miller amendment.

Hatch expressed gratification over yesterday's vote, declaring that it enabled the Democrats "to go into the campaign with a clean record".

"If the vote had been otherwise",
he added, "I am confident he
would have lost hundreds of thousands of votes".

He said he wanted to see my books", Rosseli stated. "I do not want to let anybody to come to look over my books. He get hold of me by the shirt and shook me and I shook him".

NEW DEAL HEADS TO PIGEONHOLE HATCH PROPOSAL

May Kill Move to Hurt Their Chances in Fall Election

Washington, March 7.—(AP)— Senator Hatch (D-NM), author of legislation to broaden the anti-politics law which bears his name, conceded today that "there is a good chance" the expansion bill might be pigeonholed for this session.

Opponents of the broadening proposal, by which Hatch would extend to state employees drawing some federal pay the prohibitions against political activity now imposed on federal employees, claimed that they had a 50-50 chance of returning it to the elections committee for "further study".

Such a maneuver, if successful, would tie up the legislation in committee for the rest of the session.

Before approaching a vote on this crucial move, however, the Senate reconsidered its action yesterday rejecting an amendment by Senator Danaher (R-Conn.) to give state-federal workers accused of illegal activity the right of direct appeal to the courts.

Proponents of the Danaher amendment demanded a record vote be taken today after the rejection was effected yesterday by a standing vote.

Consider Labor Act

The house, before which a $119,- 000 interior department appropriation bill was the business of the day, received from its special committee investigating the labor board a set of 17 amendments to the Wagner Labor Relations Act. The chief of these would substitute a new three-man board, with greatly limited powers, for the present three-member labor board of which J. Warren Madden is chairman.

Opponents of the legislation broadening the Hatch act failed only by a narrow margin late yesterday to put across an amendment by Senator Miller (D-Ark.) which would have wiped out some existing restrictions against "voluntary" political activity by federal employees.

Freedom also for an employer to discuss labor situations with his workers" within limitations was included in the changes proposed by Chairman Smith (D-Va.)
of an investigating committee.

The committee majority advocated that the present board, headed by J. Warren Madden, be tossed out of office at this session.

Smith said his amendments represented "imperative things that need immediate attention".

Aligned with him were Representatives Halleck (R-Ind.) and Routzohn (R-Ohio).

Democratic ranks were split by the 44-41 vote, even after senate leader Barkley (D-KY) argued that an affirmative vote would hurt the party's chances in the November election.

Barkley said the tally clearly indicated approval today for the legislation by Senator Hatch (D-NM)

extending the ban on political activity to about 250,000 state workers paid in part by federal funds.

The opponents, headed by Senators Minton (D-Ind.) and Lucas (D-Ill.), decided to ask first that the Hatch legislation be returned to the elections committee "for further study". If carried, the motion would kill the proposal for this session.

This amendment apparently was based on charges that in some cases the board had acted as judge, jury and prosecutor.

One amendment would forbid the payroll reinstatement of any employee who had engaged in wilful violence during a labor disturbance.

The suggested changes, Smith said, are not intended to affect the fundamental principle of collective bargaining in the Wagner act but, he said, would define the work of the new administrative body more clearly and eliminate cause of some of the dissatisfaction expressed about the present board.

Schumm Accepts Place With Aluminum Company

Louis Schumm, Jr., son of the

Louis Schumm of 211 Everett street, has accepted employment with the Aluminum Company of America, and will leave for Pittsburgh, Pa., following his graduation from the University of Illinois in June, to enter the company's training school.

Schumm, who was graduated from Dixon high school in 1936, has been prominent in campus activities at Illinois, where he is a senior major in civil engineering.

Besides heading his fraternity, Phi chapter of Sigma Pi, he is vice president of the Student Alumni association, a cabinet member of the Inter-Fraternity council, and is affiliated with Tau Beta Pi, engineering honorary scholastic fraternity. He is expected to arrive in Dixon about March 14 to spend the Easter recess with his parents.

Another former Dixonite, Harold Goede, has been with the civil engineering department of the same Aluminum company, since his graduation from the University of Illinois about a year ago.

Robert Sanborn, 16, Recipient of DeMolay Award

Robert Sanborn, 16-year-old Dixon high school junior, was presented with a gold medal—known within the organization as the Representative DeMolay award—at the annual banquet of Dixon chapter, Order of DeMolay, last evening in Brinton Memorial Masonic temple. The medal, awarded by the grand council of DeMolay in Kansas City, is a reward for outstanding well-rounded accomplishments and development.

Sanborn, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sanborn, Sr., of 711 East Chamberlin, is present junior counselor of the chapter. He also served as orator and marshal, and is one of the chapter's most efficient ritualists. His extra-curricular activities in high school have included football, glee club, and dramatics.

The Dixon student is an Eagle Scout, and heads the young people's Epworth League of the Methodist church. Preparatory work for the award included reports on 12 books requested by the grand council, with Martin Tayman, representative of DeMolay adviser for the Dixon chapter, conducting the review.

Wadsworth Speaker
Harry W. Thomson, chairman of the advisory committee, made the presentation. Stanley Legner, master counselor, presided during the evening's program, introducing Mr. Thomson and the guest speaker, Attorney Elwin Wadsworth.

The Life of Paul Bunyan' was Mr. Wadsworth's subject, which he illustrated with several reels of moving pictures in technicolor. The scenes included timber tracts associated with the familiar Bunyan story, the World's Fair in New York, and incidental scenes.

Mrs. Myrtle Bishop entertained with piano selections during the banquet, which was served by committees composed of members of the Order of Eastern Star and DeMolay mothers. Mrs. Ruth Emmert, worthy matron of Dorothy chapter, O. E. S., headed the banquet committee.

FOLKS WHO ARE CONSTIPATED

IT IS SAID constipation causes many human discomforts—headaches, lack of energy and mental dullness being but a few. BUT DON'T WORRY—

For years a noted Ohio Doctor, Dr. F. M. Edwards, successfully treated scores of patients for constipation with his famous Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now sold by druggists everywhere.

Olive Tablets, being purely vegetable, are wonderful! They not only gently yet thoroughly cleanse the bowels but ALSO assist liver bile flow to help digest fatty foods. Test their goodness TONIGHT without fail! 15¢, 30¢, 60¢.

Milk Dealer, in Jail, Tells Why
He's Standing Pat

Springfield, Ill., March 7—(AP)—

John Player, 36-year-old DuPage county milk dealer, told today in Sangamon county jail why he chose to serve a 90-day sentence and worry about paying a $1,000 fine rather than file an Illinois retailers' occupational tax return.

Player and his brother, Robert, 35, were convicted of failure to file sales tax returns before Circuit Judge L. E. Stone. The younger brother is free pending Judge Stone's ruling on a motion for arrest of judgment.

"I'm convinced that the retailers' tax is unconstitutional," the elder brother said, "and, so far, no one has made a serious logical attempt to show me that I may be wrong."

Player related that he had been engaged in litigation for more than three years because of his stand on the sales tax legality.

"I have been sued by the state department of finance before for the collection of about $1,000 in sales tax. It was a civil case in DuPage county and Circuit Judge William J. Fulton has the case under advisement now," Player said.

"I have tried to be consistent in not altering my stand until a ruling is made by the 16th district circuit court. Even in the face of this criminal action, I can not compromise and file a return unless Judge Fulton holds against me in the civil action."

On School Boards
Player is a husky, youthful-appearing man who said he was wrestling coach at Wheaton college and is a member of the Wheaton Community high school board and the Warrenville primary school board.

He said he was a graduate of the University of Illinois where he was captain of the wrestling team in 1924 and is now married and the father of five children.

"I really don't mind coming to grips on a question which seems important to me," Player said. "And I believe my situation may have some beneficial effect. I've always believed honest opposition is healthy in any proposition."

Player said he believed the sales tax was invalid because it gripped on a question which seems important to me," Player said. "And I believe my situation may have some beneficial effect. I've always believed honest opposition is healthy in any proposition."

State's Attorney William P. Roberts who prosecuted the Player brothers said that constitutionality of the retailers' occupational tax was not directly involved in the misdemeanor trial.

The defendants wanted to delay trial of this case until settlement of the DuPage county suit, Roberts said. "They said there were constitutional questions pertaining to this case in that action. But they had a right to raise those questions here if they wanted to."

Former Federal Judge Surrenders to Begin Serving Prison Term

New York, March 7—(AP)—Martin T. Manton, former presiding judge of the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals, surrendered today to the United States marshal to begin a two year prison term for selling justice.

Manton, his face cast in its usual scowl, went to the United States court house at 8:25 A. M. (CST) and walked directly to the office of Leo Lowenthal, the marshal.

He is to serve his sentence in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., where numerous men on whom he once passed judgment have paid their penalty for breaking the law.

The former jurist, who is approaching 60, was convicted last June 3. Federal Judge Calvin Chestnut of Maryland, who presided at the trial, said the case was without precedent in 150 years of American jurisprudence.

Korf Obituary

Mrs. Fred Korf, 49, a life-time resident of this vicinity, passed away at 11 o'clock Tuesday evening at a Freeport hospital after a brief illness from pneumonia.

Mrs. Korf, the former Agnes Abels, was a daughter of Herman and Anna Abels, and was born May 22, 1890, on a farm southwest of Forreston.

She was married to Fred Korf June 27, 1912, who survives, as do two daughters, Mrs. Marie Woessner of Shannon and Mrs. Mildred Nimmick of Forreston, also a brother, Evert Abels, and a sister, Mrs. Jennie Swalve, both of Forreston.

Funeral services will be held at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon at the home and at 1:30 at the Forreston Grove Presbyterian church, with Rev. S. J. Manus officiating. Interment in the adjoining cemetery.

Young Harmonica Player Rates As One of Greatest Instrumentalists

New York, March 7.—(AP)—Take an ordinary stock harmonica, put Larry Adler behind it, and you get kings and presidents at your feet and $1,000-a-week in your pocket.

That may sound like getting golden rabbits out of last year's straw hat, but consider the remark of William Walton, English composer:

"There are two great instrumentalists in the world—Yehudi Menuhin and Larry Adler." At 23, Adler—son of a Baltimore plumber—had been at various times a boy wonder, a movie actor-musician, musical comedy Minuet in G and two years later was on Broadway.

Then the bottom dropped out of show business. So he sent a wire to Sid Grauman of Hollywood's Chinese theatre saying "Adler is great. Sign him at once. (Signed) Roxy." It worked. He was back on top.

Can Not Read Music

The strange thing about this young man—who has played for Edward VIII, Alfonso of Spain, Gustav of Sweden, in a Grotian Hall concert in London and with the Sydney, Australia, symphony—is that he cannot read a note of music.

Finds Going Tough

He wears tails when he does concerts, but he finds the going difficult because "most people think you can't be a harmonica player and a gentleman at the same time." Yet, he says, the harmonica "has more capacity for music than almost any other instrument."

He made his reputation in this country (and he has England at his feet) with his renditions of "Bolero"—and now he detests the number.

He also has done many English and French recordings (his first for a two-volume folio), but he really wants to study and dignify the harmonica, which he started playing when he was 13. He won a contest by playing Beethoven's Minuet in G and two years later was on Broadway.

He has interpretation of the classics little short of amazing. His playing of popular melodies is top-notch. When he plays swing, jitterbugs go wild—and so does Adler, for he hates the stuff.

He works so hard he wears out a harmonica in one performance, but he salvages it by putting in new reeds. He uses an ordinary 47-note, three octave, $5-instrument. He has 300 of them.

music than almost any other instrument."

He made his reputation in this country (and he has England at his feet) with his renditions of "Bolero"—and now he detests the number.

He also has done many English and French recordings (his first for a two-volume folio), but he really wants to study and dignify the harmonica, which he started playing when he was 13. He won a contest by playing Beethoven's Minuet in G and two years later was on Broadway.

He has interpretation of the classics little short of amazing. His playing of popular melodies is top-notch. When he plays swing, jitterbugs go wild—and so does Adler, for he hates the stuff.

He works so hard he wears out a harmonica in one performance, but he salvages it by putting in new reeds. He uses an ordinary 47-note, three octave, $5-instrument. He has 300 of them.

Finds Going Tough

He wears tails when he does concerts, but he finds the going difficult because "most people think you can't be a harmonica player and a gentleman at the same time." Yet, he says, the harmonica "has more capacity for music than almost any other instrument."

He made his reputation in this country (and he has England at his feet) with his renditions of "Bolero"—and now he detests the number.

so great that in every decade of life, from cradle to old age, fewer females die than males.

A clear-cut surplus of women is in prospect as a result of this trend, figures published today by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company indicate.

The superior ability of the women to escape death covers the present century up to 1937, the last year when data are available. During this long period, the death rate of white male babies under one year old decreased 61 per cent; of girls, 33. At 20, the young men's death rate dropped 57 per cent; the young women, 65. At 40, the men were down 40 per cent; the women, 52. At 60, males experienced a reduction in mortality of less than 7 per cent, against 26 for the women.

The women were ahead at the start of the century, and have improved their positions ever since.

"In this situation, and in the absence of any substantial immigration," says the report, "it is very likely that the ratio of females to males in our population will show a continuing increase."

Tremendous social trends that may flow from such a female surplus are mentioned in a separate analysis of European nations where, due to the World War, there were for a time surpluses of women of marriageable age with a shortage of husbands. One result was a serious discussion of permitting polygamy. Another was marriage of older men to young women, with increasing divorce and a drop in child-bearing.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike of another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other. Real patriots who may resist the intrigues of the favorite are liable to become suspected and odious, while its tools and dupes usurp the appearance and confidence of the people to surrender their interests." From the Farewell Address.

Mysterious Mr. Roosevelt

The United States News, published in Washington, D. C., suggests that Mr. Roosevelt is playing cop and robbers with the third term issue as a means of preserving the influence of the United States in world affairs.

Fr. Mr. Roosevelt to renounce the third term now, the United States News says, might be tantamount to leaving the United States leaderless and without a voice in world affairs until after the election next November. The opinion seems to be based upon reason, but there is another side to the matter.

A country that can't collect its debts, that can't enforce what it terms its security as marked by the famous safety belt extending 300 miles into the ocean, and is unable to deliver mail to a neutral without having it read and in some cases seized by a belligerent, can not boast of overmuch influence in world affairs as matters now stand.

Our participation in world affairs, moreover, is limited by federal statutes which the New Deal could nullify only after a bitter struggle. We are unable to lend money to defaulting debtors, which includes all the belligerents in Europe with the exception of Finland, by reason of the Johnson act. As result of the neutrality act approved by Mr. Roosevelt, we may not sell our ships through danger zones about the British Isles and in the North sea and Baltic sea.

As a leader, Mr. Roosevelt can not declare war, lend money nor make treaties except with congressional approval. This makes Congress the leader, and Congress would be in the saddle even in case Mr. Roosevelt should decide not to seek re-election.

To the extent that the executive can influence Congress and draw the United States into unpleasant situations as long as he continues to be a mystery, the United States News will find little difference of opinion.

YESTERDAY: Florabelle's party turned out to be a drinking session. She was very drunk. Ann is sorry that she came. Steve Claybourne is nice, but Ann is not even cordial. She wishes she had never come.

CHAPTER XIV

STEVE eyed Ann's drink. "Are you hardy enough for that kind of stuff?" he asked.

"I graduated from grape juice several years ago."

Ann was still blushing. To make any kind of a scene only meant that she would focus the attention of the party upon herself and, more than anything else, she wanted to remain in the background.

Ann wandered through the little hall and into the bathroom. She dumped half the contents of her glass into the lavatory and returned to the party.

Jake met her, putting his arm around her waist. She slipped out of his embrace and went back to her chair. Jake seated himself on the arm, leaning over her.

"Bout ready for another? I'll drink?" he purred.

"I still have some."

"Like it?"

"Well enough."

He threw back his head, and roared. "Hard to please. That's the way I like 'em."

There was a discreet tap on the door and a waiter was admitted. He brought menus and stood by, pencil and pad in hand, while the guests quarreled loudly over a choice of food. The waiter looked definitely bored.

"What'll you have, peachy pie?" Jake asked, turning to Ann.

"Oysters on the half shell," she said glibly. "Horseradish sauce. Breast of turkey with a slice of baked ham and mushrooms—cauliflower in cream—no potatoes—lettuce hearts with Roquefort dressing—and let me see—meringue glace and coffee—black." She handed her menu to the waiter and he bowed.

Clara, who had been wildly muddling through the confusing page, blinked. "I'll take the same," she giggled. Steve looked at Ann curiously. It ended with five repeats of her order.

"No—I don't want to go," Clara howled. "I'm having fun—I never had so much fun in my life!"

Ann shook her arm. "Don't be another foolish mistake. She set her teeth as they zig-zagged from one curb to the other. When Steve crashed across an intersection against a red light, miraculously missing another car, Ann heard the faint whine of a police siren.

"Steve—the police—" she gasped. What a night. Why hadn't she stayed in the safe confines of Clara's apartment?

"What are you doing here, Ann?" Steve asked.

"Killing an evening. What are you doing?"

"You tell me! Do you like this sort of thing?"

"Do you?"

"Must you always answer my questions with more questions?"

His indifference had changed to lively interest.

She smiled demurely. "It's a conversational tactic employed by those who do not wish to appear too obvious."

How could she get away? An open break, she knew, would be unsuccessful. The men were in no mood to have their entertainment come to an abrupt end. Schemes fitted in the back of her mind.

Steve drained his glass. The pupils of his eyes were slightly dilated, his face was flushed.

"You're clever as they come," he said. "Where did you pick up your line?"

"From Pete."

"My father."

"Steve?"

Steve laughed. "I'd like to meet that fella. He must be somebody."

"He was. He lived by his wits."

"And his little daughter is following in his footsteps."

She shrugged, twisting her glass.

It was going to take all the wits she possessed to get out of this situation. The evening had only begun. There was no doubt that it would progress to new heights.

Two waiters came in. They set a table in the center of the room. Dinner was a nightmare of clumsy rabbaldry and intimate patter.

"Steve, I'd rather go home alone." She was close to angry tears. "I hate all of you."

"All right—I'll buy you a taxi."

"You won't do anything for me."

"Please, Ann." He looked so contrite that she ceased wriggling.

"I apologize for myself and my friends. Let me drive you home. I want to talk to you. Please."

"Wait a minute—here's your hat." He dashed up, breathing hard. "Whew—I'm winded—not so good at running as I used to be." He held out the hat.

"From Pete."

"My father."

Steve laughed. "I'd like to meet that fella. He must be somebody."

Miss Spangler and Mr. Clouse Exchange Vows

Miss Beth Lorraine Spangler, daughter of the Charles E. Spanglers of Nachusa, and Paul E. Clouse of Amboy, pledged nuptial vows at 8 o'clock last evening in a simple marriage ceremony performed by the Rev. Lee Ogan of Bluff, Ill., at the home of the bride's parents. Only the immediate families of the bridal pair, and a few close friends were present.

The bride was attired in Copenhagen blue silk crepe, and her sister chose rose mist crepe. Both were wearing black accessories. The bridal bouquet contained pink roses, and her sister wore a shoulder corsage of roses.

Mrs. Spangler was wearing green silk crepe for her daughter's wedding.

Following the ceremony, a wedding lunch was served. Afterward, Mr. Clouse and his bride left on a brief wedding trip. After Saturday, the couple will be at home in an apartment at the Giannoni residence, 203 Monroe avenue.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Clouse were graduated from Dixon high school. She was later graduated from the Liberty Beauty school in Peoria, and is now employed at the Lora Mae Beauty Service shop in this city. The bridegroom is bulk manager for the Lee County Service company at Amboy.

Those witnessing the ceremony last evening were Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Spangler, the Rev. and Mrs. P. H. Stahl, Arnold Spangler of Nachusa, Orlando Spangler of Dixon, James Abbott of Amboy, and Miss Gerhardine Bettin of Franklin Grove.

A special musical program will be presented by the students under the direction of Orville Westgor and Miss Marian Lawson at the next meeting, scheduled for Wednesday evening, April 3.

Vera Maxwell, American designer of smart suits, says: "A simple, lightweight suit in navy or black monotone tweed is the best choice for the woman whose budget allows for a limited number of outfits throughout the spring and summer seasons. With sweaters, the light tweed suit will do admirably for country. With soft, feminine blouses, it is equally practical for town."

BRIDGE CLUB Luncheon preceded contract games for a bridge group of eight meeting today as guests of Mrs. C. Lindell.

Femininity — a suave, mature, modern kind of femininity—is the theme song of spring fashions and spring makeup. There's nothing masculine about the smartest styles. But neither are there any too, too feminine, lace paper valentine effects scattered about. It's an Easter to soften a severely tailored suit with frilly blouses, amusing jewelry, pretty but not just plain funny hats. But, at the same time, an Easter to forget about bustles, wasp-waist corsets and exaggerated hoop skirts. You can be dressed in feminine manner without looking like something out of an old family album.

"To find out where rouge should be placed on your own face, lightly pinch and pat your cheeks for a second or two," a prominent Fifth Avenue beauty expert advises. Let the color subside a bit, she continues, then study closely what remains. Remember the outline of the natural color. And, thereafter, fill in that outline with rouge. Never, however, apply rouge below an imaginary line from tip of the nose to bottom of the ears.

There's a naturalness about the feminine theme this spring. Look like a lady, by all means—but a lady of 1940. Incidentally, this rule excludes "little girl" as well as family album get-ups. Distinctly on the popular side is the most popular make-up. Bright red rouge and lipstick leave all other tones in the also-ran category. Cheeks are tinted the shade they would be if they were naturally light red. Lips, for the most part, are a glowing, healthy, naturally red shade. Powder exactly matches natural skin tones.

Weekly Food and Marketing Letter by Mrs. George Thurn for Dixon Telegraph Readers

What finery will your Easter table wear?

Decorations for the Easter morning breakfast or buffet table are beginning to rival Christmas trimming in originality. When there are youngsters in the home, it is real fun to contrive a surprise table, with an Easter basket at each place, or hidden in the chair.

Many parents still take the trouble to arrange an Easter egg hunt. Booty in colored or candy eggs, with a hard-to-find chocolate bunny or special treat, may be hidden indoors, or outside, if weather permits. Clues for the hunt can be supplied at the breakfast or dinner table. In some young minds, the mysterious "Easter bunny" who provides these goodies rivals Santa Claus.

The table trim need not be costly nor elaborate. One suggestion is a heap of pastel-colored eggs on a center doily, or strip of pale green crepe paper. A circular piece of cardboard may be covered with crepe paper. For added decoration, paste a three-inch wide ruffle around the underside of the circle. Perch a chick or a bunny on the Easter eggs, or set them around the centerpiece nest. The excellent vegetable food coloring makes it easy to color eggs. White eggs are preferable. Hard-cook and cool them in advance. On the green centerpiece, yellow, pink and orchid will be attractive. Dissolve the color tablets in separate glasses of hot water, so that the desired shading may be watched. The pastel eggs will form an Easter rainbow on a crystal plate.

Children also are delighted when they find their names printed on shells of three-minute eggs. Use an indelible pencil, print the name or message, and draw a funny sketch before cooking.

A "sneak pre-view" of a gay Easter table contained some amusing ideas which clever fingers easily can duplicate. Six bunnies and chicks perched around the centerpiece, so that one stood at each plate. They were real eggs, trimmed from a special package, which contains an assortment of bunnies' and chickens' heads and tails, gummed all ready to stick on hard-cooked eggs. The eggs may be dyed, or left plain. For this special table, Easter egg dyes turned boy chicks yellow, while the girls were pink, blue and lavender.

Little stands also come in packages so it is simple to stick the heads and tails on the eggs and place them on the stands. Then make such Easter finery as bonnets, capes and coats with bits of colored crepe paper, tiny flowers and scraps of ribbon.

Instead of a nest of colored eggs, the centerpiece for this table was a tiny house, all hand-made of green cardboard, with red cardboard shutters and open door, before which stood an amorous bunny, proffering Spring flowers. A spray of any tiny artificial flowers may be stuck in Mr. Bunny's paws.

The house is six inches square, and nine inches to the peak of the roof. Cut it all in one piece, score it and put it together with gummed tape. Or each side may be cut separately and the four pieces taped together on the inside.

The door should be 3½ inches high, two inches wide and the windows two inches square. Doors and shutters may be green cardboard. The roof is a 12 inch by 7½ inch piece of red cardboard, scored and bent through the middle, the long way. It is held in place on the underside with tabs of gummed tape.

Stand this house on a 12-inch circular piece of cardboard, covered with light green crepe paper that has been stretched fully, then crushed between the fingers. Paste a 3-inch wide ruffle around the underside, as suggested for the centerpiece under the colored eggs.

The door of the house should be half-open—and of course a tiny pink chick may be peering out at her bunny visitor. This decoration should be a real hit for junior parties, which will be given throughout this month.

Some requests have come in for fresh inspiration to snap up that holiday breakfast. Easter seems to call for something special in appetizers with both eyes and taste appeal.

EASTER BREAKFAST TREATS

First for the fruit course. Sweet or tart? Ripe bananas, sliced in chilled orange juice; or, mixed grape and pineapple juice; or, a dash of cranberry juice in the orange juice with a lemon slice; or, an orange-lemon bracer. For the last, use the juice of half a lemon in a glass of orange juice. Add a sprig of mint to fruit juices.

Foreign lands that formerly bought citrus fruits and apples from the United States now are making their heaviest purchases from other countries.

State and federal authorities have been cooperating for several months in a use-more-apples campaign. A popular slogan which will appeal to cooking school pupils is "Bake a Pie," since the words suggest the convenience of that can of pastry mix, which needs only the addition of cold water to set the wheels going for a flaky, spicy dessert.

"Go easy on water for good appearance," say food research experts. "You need just a few tablespoons at first; just enough to make some steam to start the cooking. And of course the sugar should go in at the very last."

For a colorful dessert surprise, try Apples in Grape Juice: Two apples, one cup grape juice, two tablespoons whipped cream. Pare apples carefully and remove cores. Bring the grape juice to a boil, put in the apples and cook them 25 to 30 minutes, or until tender, turning frequently in the juice. Lift carefully from syrup and let the syrup thicken until it has become quite thick. Pour over apples. Serve cold, with whipped cream. This recipe serves two.

LENTEN FAVORITES

POTATOES AU GRATIN

Four cups cooked potatoes, one small onion, two cups milk, four tablespoons flour, one tablespoon butter, one cup American cheese, two chopped pimientos, one teaspoon salt.

Melt butter and flour, add milk and cook in double boiler until creamy. Dice potatoes, place half in buttered baking utensil, add grated onion, chopped pimientos and half the grated cheese. Add remaining potatoes, seasoning and sauce. Cover with remaining cheese. Bake until brown, about thirty minutes, in a moderate oven. For O'Brien potatoes, substitute slivers of green pepper for pimientos.

TOMATO EGGS

Cut hard-boiled eggs in halves lengthwise, remove yolks and fill with this mixture: Crushed yolks, grated cheese, bread crumbs, butter and enough raw tomato (or tomato juice) to make a paste. Season, chill and serve on crisp greens.

BAKED LEMON PUDDING

Three eggs, three ounces granulated sugar, two lemons, (grated rind and juice), one-fourth pint milk, two ounces cake crumbs, pastry. Mix lemon rind and juice with sugar, yolks of eggs, milk and cake crumbs. Whisk whites stiffly and fold into mixture. Line a pie utensil with pastry, pour in mixture and bake in moderate oven for 30 minutes.

FOOD MARCHES ON

Salmon Chowder Pie

Vitamins and surprises are packed into this new recipe, which disguises canned salmon into savory chowder, topped with hearty all-bran biscuits; 8 to 16 servings.

One-fourth cup each chopped onion, shortening, flour; one cup water drained from cooked vegetables, (or any desired stock), two cups milk, one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one end one-half cups cooked diced potatoes, one cup cooked sliced carrots, one cup cooked peas, one pound canned salmon, one recipe all-bran buttermilk biscuits.

Simmer onion in shortening until tender. Add flour, stir to smooth paste. Add vegetable water and milk slowly; cook until thickened. Add seasonings, vegetables and drained sliced and boned salmon. Pour into large, buttered baking utensil, cover with unbaked biscuit dough, rolled to fit dish or formed in individual biscuits. Bake in moderately hot oven, 375 degrees, about 20 minutes, or until biscuits are done.

Biscuit topping: Three-fourths cup buttermilk, one-half cup all-bran, one and one-half cups flour, one teaspoon each baking powder and salt, one-half teaspoon soda, one-third cup shortening. Soak all-bran in buttermilk. Sift dry ingredients together. Cut in shortening until mixture is like coarse cornmeal. Add soaked all-bran; stir until dough follows fork around bowl. Turn on floured board, knead lightly, roll or pat to one-half inch thickness. Cut with floured cutter. Yields 12 biscuits. (For sweet milk, omit soda and increase baking powder to three teaspoons.)

Expect LaFollette to Play Alone This Year

Washington, March 7.—(AP)—Reliable sources disclosed today that Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wis) has decided to play a lone hand in this year's elections.

Most capital politicians expect LaFollette to seek re-election under banners of the Progressive party despite the setback given his brother, former Governor Philip LaFollette, and other Wisconsin Progressives by the Republicans in 1938.

FRANCES OWEN ATTEMPTS TO UPSET PATTY BERG

St. Augustine, Fla., March 1—(AP)—Frances Owen of Jacksonville, Fla., attempted the role of upstart today in opposing Patty Berg of Minneapolis in the second match play round of the annual Florida east coast women's golf tournament.

Mrs. Freda Nolan of Pittsburgh faced national champion Betty Jameson of San Antonio, Texas.

A third favored player, Elizabeth Hicks of Long Beach, Calif., drew Laddie Irwin, youthful Montclair, N. J., star, as an opponent.

Six new individual titleholders

Vitt Suspects Bob Feller Will Turn Out as Greatest

Fort Myers, Fla., March 7—(AP)—Oscar Vitt, the old Detroit infielder, isn't yet dead certain that Bob Feller is destined to be baseball's greatest pitcher, but Oscar has his suspicions.

The Cleveland pilot's blue eyes light up when the subject swings around to the big boy from the corn country. He is getting a thrill out of handling Feller, watching the youngster steadily develop.

"Bob won 24 games last year and lost 9," he said, impressively. "I think I had to pull him from only three games. If he gets a little more control of his curve ball nobody will beat him. He'll be the greatest we ever saw."

"Some days now he is just as fast as Johnson ever was, and he has that curve that Johnson didn't have. If he had Derringer's control they would be lucky to get one hit a game off the kid. But he's putting that ball where he wants it better all the time, and he's only 21 now. Honest, I hate to say how great a pitcher he's liable to be."

Feller, despite his tender years, is handled like a veteran pitcher by Vitt. He has no routine to follow in the training camp, and is left almost entirely to his own devices. He throws only as much as he wants to, and he gradually is curbing his desire to have a baseball in his big hand at the time. He looks older, more sure of himself than he did a year ago.

Next to Feller, Oscar has no doubts about who is the best pitcher in the American League—or in baseball, for that matter.

He says its Red Ruffing of the Yankees, and he agrees that the big right-hander never has been given full credit for his ability nor his proper share of credit for the success of the Yankees.

INDIANA TO DEFEND BIG TEN
WRESTLING TITLE TOMORROW

LaFayette, Ind., March 7.—(AP)—Indiana university will defend its Big Ten wrestling championship in the annual conference meet at Purdue university here tomorrow and Saturday.

Michigan, Illinois and Minnesota matmen are expected to give the Hoosiers their stiffest tussles. Six new individual titleholders are assured. Championship defenders will be on hand in only two of the eight weight classifications—Hanson of Minnesota in the 128-pound class and McDaniels of Indiana in the 165-pound class.

One hundred and twelve wrestlers are entered. Every school in the Western Conference will be represented in all events except Wisconsin, which will not send a heavyweight.

Coaches will draw up the schedule tomorrow morning. Preliminary and quarter-final matches are set for tomorrow afternoon and semi-finals for tomorrow night. Finals and consolation matches will be Saturday.

AMERICAN BOWLING CONGRESS
OPENS TONIGHT IN DETROIT

Detroit, March 7.—(AP)—The 40th annual tournament of the American Bowling Congress, a record-breaking affair even before the first ball rolls down an alley, opens a two-month stand tonight at the fairgrounds coliseum.

Bowlers from all parts of the United States and from far-away Canada comprise the entry list of more than 30,000 scheduled to roll before the close of the tournament May 7.

Coaches will draw up the schedule tomorrow morning. Preliminary and quarter-final matches are set for tomorrow afternoon and semi-finals for tomorrow night. Finals and consolation matches will be Saturday.

This is by all odds our greatest tournament," said Elmer H. Baumgarten, A. B. C. secretary, as workmen put the finishing touches on the 40 alleys of polished maple. "We have shattered all records — marks that were just dreams a few years ago."

The list of 6,073 team entries from 729 cities gave point to his remark. The previous record was the list of 4,957 teams entered in the 1938 tournament at Chicago. The doubles event has attracted 10,398 entries, the singles 20,874.

AUGUSTANA GIRLS WIN

St. Paul.—(AP)—A girls' team from Augustana college, Rock Island, Ill., and a men's team from Carlton college, Northfield, Minn., won the ninth annual northwest debate tournament last night. Fifteen midwestern colleges were represented.

New York, March 7.—(AP)—Dr. John H. Finley, educator and editor emeritus of the New York Times, died in his sleep early today.

Dr. Finley, who was 75, recently underwent an operation for hernia in the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center, but his rugged physique apparently brought about a quick recovery.

He returned to his home at 1 Lexington avenue about three weeks ago. It was there he died.

Finley was an educator by virtue of inherited talent but preferred to be an editor. He alternated between the two fields through most of his mature life, having been president of Knox College, the College of the City of New York and New York state commissioner of education when he wasn't directing magazines or writing editorials for newspapers.

His father, grandfather and great-grandfather were farmers, yet he was the fifth college president in the Finley family.

Born in LaSalle County

He was born at Grand Ridge, LaSalle county, Illinois, on October 19, 1863, the son of James G. and Margaret McCombs Finley and fifth in descent from Rev. James Finley, who came from Ireland in 1734. He went through the high school at Ottawa, Ill., then entered Knox College.

It was at Knox that he acquired his liking for journalism, for he earned most of his way by "stickering type" in a Galesburg newspaper.

He won the Illinois state inter-collegiate oratorical contest in 1886 and a nine-state tournament in 1887, each time declaiming on the subject of John Brown.

After graduation from Knox in 1887 he entered Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, as a student in history, economics and politics with the idea of fitting himself for editorial work. He helped Prof. Richard T. Ely prepare a book on "Taxation In American States and Cities" and in 1889 became secretary of the State Charities Aid Association in New York. He founded and edited a magazine for this organization.

Teacher and Editing Go Together

In 1891 he was elected president of Knox only four years after his graduation from the school. He directed the college for seven years, meanwhile continuing as editor of the "Charities Review" and being active in the National Conference of Charities and Corrections.

French Navy Claims to Have Sunk Dozen Nazi
Subs During Conflict

Paris, March 7.—(AP)—The French navy has sunk 12 German submarines, captured 18,000 tons of German shipping and with the British navy has broken the back of Germany's threat to block the sea lanes, Navy Minister Cesare Campini declared today.

(British sources have reported that the two allied navies have destroyed a total of about 50 submarines.)

In a survey of the first six months of the war Campini asserted that "the allied naval supremacy is better than ever and Germany's main fleet does not move much nor far from its bases".

Half the drownings in this country occur in June, July and August.

Many Votes Come from Graveyards Barrett Charges

Rushville, Ill., March 7—(Special)—"Undisputable evidence has been disclosed that thousands of votes tabulated in the 1938 and 1939 elections literally were cast from Cook county graveyards," George F. Barrett, Republican candidate for attorney general, charged here last night.

Barrett made the charges at a Republican rally, which was held in his honor and at which William Hugh Young, chairman of the Schuyler County Republican Central Committee presided. The new charges came on the heels of equally sensational disclosures which he made yesterday at Bloomington. He charged in that address that Richard J. Lyons actually was elected senator in 1938 and that Dwight H. Green was elected mayor of Chicago in 1939. Both elections were stolen by the Democratic machine, Barrett charged.

The accusations made at Bloomington and the new ones made here last night were substantiated by Barrett with one of the first official reports on the work of a special committee investigating election frauds in Cook county. Barrett is a member of the committee.

"One method used by the machine to steal votes and perpetuate itself in power is to leave the names of deceased persons on the poll lists," Barrett explained. "On election days, votes are cast in the names of these persons. It is unbelievable, but true, that in one precinct which was investigated, we found definite evidence that most of the 171 fraudulent votes tabulated were of this type."

"Curse to State"

"This situation is a curse to the entire state of Illinois. In a state contest, every vote stolen in Cook county nullifies one vote which is honestly counted downstate. That is why, in 1938, when you people downstate and the honest voters in Chicago elected Richard Lyons as senator, he was not given a certificate of office. The machine stole enough votes in Cook county to more than off-set the majority which downstate gave him. He should be senator now, but instead he is running for governor. One of the worst travesties on our American form of government is that his opponent, Dwight Green, also was honestly elected to office, but deprived of his certificate by Cook county vote thieves and ballot box stuffers."

Pledged to End Frauds

Barrett is basing his campaign on his pledge to end vote frauds. "This can be done by a Republican attorney general who comes from Cook county, who understands the situation there and who knows how to solve the problem," he said.

TURNING OVER A NEW LEAF

With the blackout of the basketball season last night and with spring just around the corner, sports enthusiasts are turning their thoughts away from last night's disaster to track, baseball, tennis and golf. Coach A. C. Bowers of the high school track team will call for the first practice Monday night and Coach Fridolf Lunholm is making plans for the first indoor tennis.

SPLIT IN GAME AND A HALF

The Dixon Soda Grill cagers bowed to the Walnut Indians' demands Tuesday night on the winners' court in a tilt which ended on the narrow margin of 29 to 28. The Grillers played a half game with the Princeton club and led 18 to 16 at the half from where the Walnut team carried on the battle.

DIXON CRIBBERS WIN

The city hall cribbage team scored a 19 to 13 win over Captain George Schultz and his Franklin Grove players last evening at the fire department headquarters. Captain Dave Kelly and his partner, Joe Miller led the high scoring for the evening while Chief Sam Cramer and City Clerk Wayne Smith tied their games with the guests.

OREGON'S PERCENTAGE

In the Oregon Hawks' victory over Stockton last night the Ogle county team made 19 field goals out of 61 attempts for a percentage of .311. The losers made 12 buckets out of 69 attempts for a percentage of .174.

SUMMARY

Maybe it's better forgotten, but maybe you'd like to know that a summary of the regional tournament here reveals that the average score for all winners was 41; for all losers 24. The average number of personal fouls per game was 29; the average number of free throws awarded for these was 33 and 70 per cent of them were made. The average number of times a player was removed from a game for fouls was 1 and the average number of charged time outs was 4. The average number of personal fouls made by the offensive team was three and the average number of cases of traveling was nine. The average number of two-hand shots was 74 and 21 per cent of them were made. The average number of one-hand shots was 60 with 8 per cent of them successful.

INTERESTED FANS

Nearly 425 calls were received at the Telegraph offices last night as Dixon fans called for quarter-by-quarter scores on the Rockford-Dixon game. Added to these was the following of over 200 who attend the game.

WE'RE STILL REPRESENTED

With the elimination of Dixon by Rockford last night Dixon fans will be pulling for Sterling to go through their sectional and carry the North Central conference into the state finals.

Training Camp Briefs

TRAINING CAMP BRIEFS

By The Associated Press

SOONER THAN EXPECTED Avalon, Calif.—Gabby Hartnett, the Chicago Cubs' veteran catcher-manager, is going into action sooner than he expected—all because of the Finnish war. He hadn't planned to play until the Cubs reached San Antonio, Texas, en route home, but agreed to appear along with eight other members of his team in a game at Los Angeles Sunday for the benefit of the Finnish relief fund.

FIRST GAME

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Manager Ray Blades split the St. Louis Cardinals into two squads today for the first game of the training season, probably hoping the maneuver would take his players' minds off Joe Medwick's contract troubles. Meanwhile both Medwick (in St. Louis) and the management waited for somebody to make the first move.

EXPECT ROOKIE TO START

Lakeland, Fla.—The Detroit Tigers are expected to start Rookie Dick Conger, Los Angeles policeman's son and ex-college star, on the mound against Brooklyn in their first exhibition game Sunday. Second Baseman Charley Gehring is ailing. The veteran Tiger infield star is suffering from a strained back.

PRACTICE ON GRIDIRON

Mort Myers, Fla.—It might become confusing if continued, but the Cleveland Indians conducted their baseball practice yesterday in a football field. Their training diamond was flooded by an all-night rain, forcing the shift to other quarters.

GHOST OF SERIES

St. Petersburg, Fla.—The ghost of the last World Series reared itself in the New York Yankees' first intra-squad game. Lefty Lee Grissom, who was obtained by Wyatt, hoping to recover from a knee injury and again take his place as a Brooklyn Dodger pitching stalwart, got a rough going over in yesterday's debut. In two innings he yielded nine hits and seven runs. Manager Leo Durocher said after the game, however,

DUROCHER IS HOPEFUL

Cleatwater, Fla.—Whitlow Wyatt, who was obtained by the champions from the Cincinnati Reds this winter, was pitching airtight ball until Charley Keller tripped with a man on base.

Dixon Dukes' Dreams of Fame Ended at Rockford Last Night Where the 1939 Champions Nipped Locals, 34-24

Dixon's purple Dukes, whose claim to royalty assured their coronation as the crown heads of the North Central conference, were forced into a bitter exile last night by the Rockford Rabs, defending kings of the state basketball realms.

In the Rabs' own courtroom, the Dukes' dream of the "sweet sixteen" collapsed like a house of cards with the huff and puff of a 34 to 24 wind leaving jokers face up where aces should have been.

Fans, impressed by the Dukes' string of 12 straight victories, had not over-rated the team; it was simply that the boys could not deliver when the going got tough. A forecast of their doom was read in the Sterling defeat in the regional here. The Rockford Rabs, defending kings of the state basketball realms.

In a double elimination event the series started with Harmon's 16 to 9 victory over Compton as E. Smallwood, center for the winners, scored 14 of their points. Harmon led 4 to 0 at the end of the first canto and 8 to 2 at the intermission.

In the second engagement Paw Paw won a low-scoring victory over St. Mary's of Dixon, 7 to 4.

SAFRANK made four of the points for the winners with two field goals. The Dixon team led, 3 to 2, at the half.

In the climax of the evening the South Central school, champions of the Dixon league, won an overtime victory, 16 to 15, over the Lincoln cagers also of Dixon. Canney led the winners with a total of eight points on four buckets. In the overtime period Helfrich scored two free throws and Frey made one or two attemps.

High Scorer Haws of Amboy scored high honors of the Ashton hosts this far when he paced his Amboy mates to a 23 to 15 victory over North Central of Dixon. The Amboy forward rang up a total of 16 points with eight field goals. Goff was high for the Dixon losers with two buckets and two charity shots for six counters.

In the final game of the first round the Ashton hosts came from behind to defeat Lee Center 15 to 10. The Ashton team trailed 2 to 0, at the end of the first quarter and 8 to 3 at the half. In the third frame the Lee Center team counted two tallies while the Ashton crew trailed 10 to 5 with only two points in the period. In the last stanza the hosts rallied with 10 points while holding the visitors scoreless and won the game.

Dixon bobbled the ball a great deal—but so did the Rockford team and although the victory can not be taken from the hosts, it is believed they wouldn't have made as great a showing if they had met the Dukes before the post-season slump.

Outstanding Players Outstanding in the ranks of the winners were Speck at forward and Alonzo at guard, both of them members of the state champion ship team of last season. Speck contributed a total of 14 points to the victory and Alonzo added nine. Their fast break under the rim damped the hopes of the less-speedy Dukes.

Surprising in the Dixon defeat was the collapse of players on whom the fans had learned to depend for offensive attacks. A nervousness coupled with lack of heat, a characteristic of the earliest games, resulted in the Dixon lads getting nowhere with plenty of shots. Had they once started to click where they were expected to, Dixon might be returning to Rockford tomorrow night.

Ardell Bugg rated scoring honors among the Dukes with a total of nine points while Alan Wienman and Bill Shultz played some of the best defensive ball of their careers. The fact that Rockford didn't run up a larger score, was largely through the efforts of these two who seemed to possess coolness and deliberation to the very end.

Many Dixon Fans For the large following of over 200 Dixon fans the only reasons for hope were in the first few minutes of the game when Bugg sank a one-handed shot and Kelly dropped in two free throws on Tronske's foul.

Speck scored his first goal with a beautiful long shot and the Dukes called it quits.

Sterling Cagers Win Over Galva in Tournament

Sterling's basketeers who routed the Dukes in the final game of the regional here last Saturday night, continued on their merry way last night in their first game of the Kewanee sectional by defeating Galva, 37 to 29.

Tomorrow night the Brandau men will meet Canton in the first game of the evening and the first of the semi-finals.

Sterling recovered from a first quarter count which had the Galva boys leading, 13 to 7 and came through to trail only 18 to 16 at the half. In the third frame the Sterling team advanced to the lead with 10 points to six by Galva.

The winners continued their good fortune with 11 more counters in the last period to five by the losers.

Bobby Wolf was high scorer of the game with six buckets and one free throw for 13 points.

Eight Survive Golden Gloves Finals Last Eve

Chicago, March 7.—(AP)—Eight young athletes circled "March 18" on their calendars today—the date when they will bid for even moreistic glory than was theirs last night when they emerged as champions of the Golden Gloves tournament before 21,000 at the Chicago Stadium.

Rockford began to freeze the ball in the fourth quarter and attempted to crash the Dixon zoning failed when the Rabs turned to offense. In this period the Dukes outscored the defending champions with seven points to four.

Sudden Burst of Power Alonzo missed a free throw on Shultz's first foul and Dixon used its fifth time out. In a sudden burst of power the Dukes rang up four points with hook shots under the basket by Bugg and Witzleb. Alonzo missed again on a foul by Shultz and Wood scored under the rim.

Alonzo counted from the corner of the court and Moser went into the game for Witzleb. Moser's foul brought a declined shot by the Rabs who began their freeze out and the final scoring of the game was made when Kelly dropped in two free throws on Tronske's second foul.

Coach Jim Laude of the Rabs and Coach L. E. Sharpe of Dixon sent in last-minute substitutions and the game ended soon after Wienman's foul gave the Rabs the ball out of bounds.

The Dukes made eight field goals in 60 attempts at the rim for a percentage of .133 while the winners counted 15 buckets out of 45 shots for a percentage of .333.

Renew Talk of Hull as Heir to FDR'S Prestige

(By The Associated Press)

Washington, March 7—The renewed talk of Secretary Hull as a potential heir to President Roosevelt's political prestige is deepening the speculation over a Democratic vice presidential nominee.

It is exactly a century since a president was elected whose age compared closely with that of Secretary Hull. William Henry Harrison, the oldest man ever elected, was 68 when inaugurated in 1841. Hull will be 69 before election day. Vice President Garner, according to his campaign biography, will be 71 before inauguration day. His birth date as listed in Who's Who would make him 72.

And the mention of either Hull or Garner for the head of the ticket immediately sets politicians to combing through the field of presidential contenders for a man to put on the other end. That is drawing new attention to such men as Senator Wheeler of Montana, Attorney General Robert H. Jackson of New York, Paul V. McNutt of Indiana and Postmaster General James A. Farley of New York.

But none of the speculators is closing his books on President Roosevelt yet.

Abyssinians divide the year into 12 months of 30 days each. The extra five days are placed at the end of the year and are observed by the government and the people as national holidays.

Australian ballot system of secret voting had its origin in Australia in 1856. It was first adopted in the United States by Massachusetts about 1888.

The American flag received its first formal salute in February, 1778, when a French man-of-war recognized the new emblem by the Ranger, a Yankee vessel commanded by John Paul Jones.
